

SPURT WINS FOR C. C. N. Y.

City College Five Noses Out Penn as Game Closes.

The last three minutes of the College of the City of New York-Pennsylvania basket ball battle last night proved a lucky period for the fast New York team, which won out in a grand rush by the narrow margin of 20 to 18 at the City College gymnasium.

Having led most of the way from the opening whistle, the Quakers seemed destined to add another court triumph to their record of the season, but they had not calculated on the unerring eye of Tischinsky, the speedy New York left forward. Three minutes from the end, with the score at 17 to 14 in favor of the Philadelphians, Tischinsky caged a goal from the middle of the floor, added another a fraction of a minute later, and then Projansky wound up the scoring for the evening with a pair of foul goals, giving City College the lead and a little later the victory.

Penn always led in the first half and closed the period with the score 9 to 8. Passing of extraordinary merit was the feature of both teams' play.

The lineup:
