

Three-Game Schedule Arranged For Pennsylvania Cub Eleven

The University of Pennsylvania freshman football team will play three football teams next season instead of only one as heretofore, the athletic council at the institution deeming more competition for the yearlings desirable. Last Fall the freshmen defeated their only opponent, Cornell, on Franklin Field.

All three of the first-year games will be played in November. The initial contest, to be held on Nov. 2, will bring the Bellefont Academy eleven to Philadelphia. A week later the Cornell freshman will be encountered, while the final contest will be waged with Dean Academy at Franklin Field.

John P. Butler, who played centre on the varsity eleven before graduation, will again be head coach of the Penn freshmen. He will be assisted by Dr. Alfred Langdon, who was a halfback during Heisman's régime.
