

WEATHER DISRUPTS COLLEGE SCHEDULE

Sports Program Is Hit Hard— N. Y. U.-Columbia Baseball Game Is Canceled

Cold weather and wet or snow-covered grounds throughout the East resulted in the postponement or outright cancellation of all but a few of the outdoor college athletic events scheduled for yesterday.

All the local college baseball games, including such features as the forty-fifth New York University-Columbia meeting at Ohio Field, Manhattan-St. John's at Manhattan Field and Rutgers-Fordham at Fordham Field, were called off.

Immediate efforts to set an acceptable new date for the N. Y. U.-Columbia contest were unavailing, so it is likely that it will be canceled. Manhattan and St. John's will try again on a date as yet undecided. Fordham's game was canceled.

Princeton's scheduled Eastern League meeting with Cornell at Princeton was postponed, being re-booked as part of a double-header at Ithaca next Saturday. Army-Penn at West Point and Seton Hall-C. C. N. Y. at South Orange, N. J., were among the other postponements.

The number of other events, such as lacrosse, tennis, track and Rugby, similarly affected by the unseasonable weather, was almost as large. Naturally, most of the high and prep school sports events in this area were wiped off the calendar, too.

The leading college baseball games postponed or canceled:

POSTPONED GAMES

St. John's at Manhattan.
Cornell at Princeton (to April 20 at Ithaca).
Pennsylvania at Army.
Brooklyn College at Hofstra (to April 22).
Pratt at Drew.
Paterson at Wagner.
C. C. N. Y. at Seton Hall.
Tufts at Harvard.
Lehigh at Swarthmore.
Drexel at Haverford.
Lebanon Valley at Gettysburg.

CANCELED GAMES

Columbia at New York University.
Rutgers at Fordham.
Harvard graduates at Yale.
Lafayette at Navy.
Dickinson at Temple.
West Virginia at Penn State.
Moravian at P. M. C.
Penn A. C. at Ursinus.