

CORNELL HANDS PENN 28-TO-14 LOSS

Marinaro Runs for 181 Yards
and 4 Big Red Scores

By MURRAY CHASS
Special to The New York Times

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22—Cornell's Ed Marinaro warmed up with 20 pull-ups in the locker room today, then wrapped up his bid for the National Collegiate rushing championship with a sizzling performance on a cold day.

The Big Red sophomore, breaking the Ivy League rushing record, ran for 181 yards and scored all four touchdowns as Cornell coasted past Penn, 28-14.

Marinaro, who started the day in second place in the rushing race, raised his season total to 1,409 yards, putting him ahead of Clarence Davis of Southern California and Steve Owens of Oklahoma.

Davis gained 1,275 yards, while Owens has 1,262 with a game against Oklahoma State next week.

Davis and Owens have an advantage, playing 10 games each to nine for Marinaro, who likes to warm up before each game by lifting weights or doing pullups. "It gets my blood going," he says. "If I don't do them, I feel like I just got out of bed."

As far as the Quakers were concerned, he could have stayed in bed today, because his dominance of the game was obvious.

On Cornell's four scoring drives, Marinaro accounted for 45 of 62 yards (including 11 with a pass he caught), 35 of 46, 28 of 50 and 36 of 53.

He scored three of the touchdowns in the second quarter on runs of 2, 35 and 2 yards and the fourth in the third period on a 1-yard burst.

Along the way, the youngster from New Milford, N. J., surpassed Cosmo Iacavazzi's Ivy rushing record of 837 yards by pushing his league total to 1,002, giving him a lofty standard to shoot for in his next two years at Ithaca.

Penn, which finished with a 4-5 won-lost record (2-5) in the Ivy League helped Cornell (4-5 and 4-3) by fumbling away the ball three of the eight times it moved into Cornell territory. The Big Red went on to score the first two times it happened.

But once Marinaro started gliding over Franklin Field's artificial green carpet, there was little doubt that Cornell was going to wind up the winner with or without Penn's help.

Marinaro Paces Drive

Cornell started moving for its first score after Penn's Bill Sudhaus fumbled at the visitors' 38-yard line. Theo Jacobs and Lavoy Spooner forced the ball out of the halfback's grasp and Dennis Lubozynski, a standout linebacker all day, fell on it.

Of the 12 plays that it took the Big Red to get into the end zone, Marinaro caught one pass and ran eight times, the last five in succession covering the final 20 yards. A 15-yard pass from Rick Furbush to Brooks School also was a big play in the drive.

Penn couldn't go anywhere on its turn with the ball, and the Big Red got it back four plays later. A 15-yard penalty for a personal foul on the punt return set the ball at the Quaker 47.

Furbush raced 12 yards on the first play and then, more typically, handed the ball to Marinaro.

The sophomore darted through the left side of the line, broke into the clear behind a block by Frank Bennett and veered toward the left corner of the end zone.

As he reached the goal line, he hurdled over a prone Penn defensive back, Matt Lawlor, and came down with another six points.

Quakers Fumble Again

It was time for the Quakers to fumble away the ball again, and they did at the Cornell 45.

Just as John Brown, the quarterback, started to pitch the ball out to John Tremba, Bill Ellis hit him and the ball fell to the ground. Craig Cochran grabbed it at the 50, and Cornell started moving again.

This time it took 11 plays with Marinaro carrying five consecutive times for the last 22 yards. As he burst through the right side from the 2, seven Penn players converged on him, but they merely wound up falling on him in the end zone.

After Penn had finally scored in the third quarter on Tremba's 23-yard run up the middle, Marinaro capped his scoring on a 1-yard dive—his eighth carry in nine plays.

The touchdown was the 14th of the season for the ace halfback, two more than the previous school record of 12 set by Howie Blose in 1943.

Amid all of the Marinaro record-setting—he also set the Ivy mark for carries in a season, his 37 today giving him 209 for the year—Penn managed to set one of its own.

When Brown fired a 15-yard touchdown pass to Bob Long with 1:56 left in the game, it was the team's 26th first down, which was one more than the school record.

Statistics of the Game

	Penn	Corn.
First downs	26	18
Rushing yardage	161	236
Passing yardage	239	72
Return yardage	26	0
Passes	19-36	5-8
Interceptions by	1	0
Punts	2-37	5-36
Fumbles lost	3	0
Yards penalized	32	45

Cornell 0 21 7 0—28
Penn 0 0 7 0—14
Cornell—Marinaro, 2, run (Killian, kick).
Cornell—Marinaro, 35, run (Killian, kick).
Cornell—Marinaro, 2, run (Killian, kick).
Penn—Tremba, 23, run (Berry, kick).
Cornell—Marinaro, 1, run (Killian, kick).
Penn—Long, 15, pass from Brown (Berry, kick).
Attendance—50,357.