PRINCETON, N.J., Jan. 7 — The Princeton University basketball team demonstrated that it is still a power to be reckoned with in the Ivy League as it defeated Harvard, 83-64, tonight at Jadwin Gym.

Bob Kleinert led the Tigers, who improved their record in the Ivy League to 2-1, with 16 points. Princeton had been struggling after a loss to Penn earlier in the week.

Princeton penetrated the Harvard defense with crisp passing. Frank Sowinski and Kleinert of Princeton were often open for baseline jumpers.
